But the one thing that unites independents is their concern over the kind of partisanship that is governing the nation. Inwhen the next mayor of New York City will be elected by just a handful of voters, it should be a wakeup call for people. It was an arrangement that hardly seemed either meritocratic or democratic.

and Salit partnered in in an effort to bring a nonpartisan election system to New York City. Is it because a certain fabric of American society that we relied on, as a nation, is unraveling?
