In this sense, Finnish schools are able to serve all learners well, regardless of their family background or socioeconomic status. The framework can be adopted or adapted to give due considerations to the complexities of the contexts where it is being implemented. Among the achieved results, emerges the conclusive understanding that there are successful alternative educational systems that are deeply opposed to the global corporate standard of education, and which can serve as educational models for other nations.

The Human Employment and Resource Training HEART Trust was established as a statutory corporation by an Act of the Jamaican Parliament in to provide out-of-school training in basic skills and to monitor and coordinate non-formal skills training projects. Each represented another policy initiative in secondary schooling. Selection would be based entirely on merit.
