There are two main ways to sell your home -- with an agent or without one. Returns are a part of being a seller, so accept it and keep listing. For buyers, if you are needing a loan to purchase a home, start this process early.

However, situations in which the sellers are showing a home can happen in many Buyers : try to avoid renegotiating the entire deal unless you get some major surprises at your inspections or inflating small repairs to try to justify a major price cut. You may even have started looking at houses. Sellers: If you get multiple offers and are tempted to take a sky-high one or one that claims to be all cash, consider requesting proof that the buyer has sufficient funds to make up the difference between what you think the home will appraise for and the actual sale price, and statements showing the cash truly exists.

But buyers, take note - there is a minefield of seller turn-offs you can trigger.
